

coming Eagle was with the open expanses instead of building after building in the valleys.

My daughter told me that the lovely land with cattle and horses on it might soon be a huge development, and I was concerned enough to go to the town meeting on Feb. 1.

The developers gave a good, optimistic presentation, which was to be expected, though evidently there were some errors.

What really bothered me was the dismissive, condescending and sometimes downright rude attitude of the trustees toward those who spoke against the project.

Since not one citizen spoke for the project, I sort of wonder who the trustees are representing.

As I said, I am new to Eagle but expect to learn more about this Eagle River Station. It's too bad the next meeting is on Valentine's Day, which means many of us won't be able to attend.

Katherine Delanoy Eagle

Why meet on holiday?

When I decided, last year, to move to Colorado to be closer to family, I had a choice of Boulder, Pueblo or Eagle. I chose Eagle because it is small, walkable and has a rural feel.

A short while ago, as I was riding with my daughter back from Avon, I commented on how much more wel-

Vail Daily Feb. 8, 2012